

APPLICATION

The Elizabeth and Harold Robinson Scholars and Fellows Fund was established to honor the parents of University of Memphis alumnus J. Michael Robinson. It is available to full-time University of Memphis undergraduate and graduate students majoring in programs of the College of Communication and Fine Arts. Incoming freshmen are also eligible to apply for the award as long as they have been admitted to the University, major in one of CCFA's programs, and completed any special admission requirements of the programs of the College of Communication and Fine Arts. Awards are based on academic and creative achievement. Financial need may also be considered.

Incoming Freshmen

To be eligible for the scholarship, incoming freshmen must first be admitted to the University of Memphis, major in one of CCFA's programs, complete any special admission requirements of the programs of the College of Communication and Fine Arts, and have a minimum ACT score of 24. Subject to available funding, the scholarship can be renewed if the student remains in good standing as a full-time student in one of the programs of the College of Communication and Fine Arts, and maintains a minimum GPA of 3.0. If these requirements are met, the student may retain the scholarship until the completion of his/her program of study, but for no longer than a maximum of three (4) years.

Undergraduate Students

Current CCFA undergraduate students who wish to be considered for the scholarship should have a grade point average (GPA) of 3.3 or above. Subject to available funding, the scholarship can be renewed if the student remains in good standing as a full-time student in one of the programs of the College of Communication and Fine Arts, and maintains a minimum GPA of 3.0. If these requirements are met, the student may retain the scholarship until the completion of his/her program of study, but for no longer than a maximum of three (4) years.

Graduate Students

Graduate students must major in one of CCFA's programs and be admitted to graduate school before applying for the fellowship. Subject to available funding, the fellowship can be renewed if the student remains in good standing as a full-time student in one of the programs of the College of Communication and Fine Arts, and maintains a minimum GPA of 3.25. If these requirements are met, the student may retain the sfellowship until the completion of his/her program of study, but for no longer than a maximum of three (3) years.

Application and Selection Process

The selection of award recipients is coordinated through the University's Scholarship Office and the Robinson Fund Committee within the College of Communication and Fine Arts. The selection of fellowship recipients is coordinated through the CCFA. Interested students should obtain an application from the Dean's office or online at ccfa.memphis.edu. The completed application form and a letter, stating qualifications and field of interest should be submitted to the Robinson Scholarship Coordinator. Applicants should also include supporting letters from high school teachers, university professors, and others familiar with their work, as well as copy of their most recent academic transcript. If students wish financial need to be considered, they should include information showing that they have qualified for one of the Student Financial Assistance programs administered by the U.S. Department of Education.
