Mid-South ACT Begins a New Program for Vocational Rehabilitation (VR) Clients with Physical and/or Visual Disabilities that will Aid in Accessing GED® Test Preparation Materials!

Are you an individual with a physical and/or visual disability who has not completed the high school requirements necessary to graduate and are considering taking the General Education Development (GED®) test?

Are you currently attending a GED® preparation class and are unable to follow the instruction at the same pace as students without visual and/or physical disabilities?

What exactly is the GED® test? The General Educational Development Test (GED®) is for adults who do not have a high school diploma. Those who pass the test receive a High School Equivalency Certificate. The GED® test covers five subjects: reading, writing, math, science, and social studies.

GED® preparation is offered locally at community colleges, learning centers, and other educational sites. There is a major need for a preparation class geared specifically to individuals with visual and/or physical disabilities.

To meet this need, Mid-South Access Center for Technology (ACT) is offering a program designed to explore the use of assistive technology devices and/or applications to access GED® preparation materials. Registration is still open.
