

Potential College-Related Expenses

The UofM Financial Aid Office develops a Cost of Attendance (COA) for college-related expenses each aid year. The COA is a comprehensive estimate consisting of Direct Costs and Indirect Costs related to educational expenses. Direct Costs can include tuition/fees and a housing/meal plan if you are living on campus. Direct Costs are only those expenses billed by the UofM. Indirect Costs include books, travel and miscellaneous expenses. Indirect Costs are those college expenses not billed by the UofM.

Here’s what you might expect for an academic year (both fall and spring semesters):

RESIDENCY/HOUSING	DIRECT COSTS	TUITION/FEES*	HOUSING/MEAL PLAN	ESTIMATED TOTAL DIRECT COST	INDIRECT COSTS	BOOKS	TRAVEL	MISC.	ESTIMATED TOTAL INDIRECT COST

EXPLORE EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING CREDIT OPPORTUNITIES

Experiential Learning Credit (ELC) is a highly individualized process that offers adult and non-traditional students the unique opportunity to petition for college credit for the knowledge, training and skills they previously learned through a broad range of experiences outside of the traditional academic setting.

We believe that rigorous professional and/or personal development often occurs in settings outside the traditional classroom. At the University of Memphis, we grant ELC to students who demonstrate the academic merit of such experiences. Experiential learning is learning by doing! With ELC, you can reduce the repetition of relevant course-related material. You can validate the importance of your prior learning, resulting in tuition cost savings and accelerated degree completion. memphis.edu/innovation/elc

TUITION CAP

All full-time, in-state undergraduate students, regardless of whether classes are taken on campus or online, will only be charged for 12 credit hours. There is no additional tuition charge for hours above 12. The tuition cap makes it easier to stay on track while maintaining your costs.
