CEPR Travel Award Application

The department of Counseling, Ed Psych & Research is pleased to announce an annual research travel award for currently fulltime enrolled CEPR graduate students. The purpose of the award is to encourage student travel to national conferences in order to present research. This award will help offset some of the traditional conference expenses.

Details of the Award:

- Award amount: one award per year amount determined by departmental review of research and availability of funds.
- Award amount can go toward traditional conference related expenses (conference registration, travel, hotel, etc.)
- Awards are limited to graduate students who are an author/presenter.
- In order to receive the award, the student must fill out and submit the CEPR Travel Award Application (next page) and all necessary forms.
- By accepting the award, the student agrees to present their findings at said conference or similar College of Education presentations.
- The award may be used along with other travel awards (e.g., conference or GSA university travel funds) assuming the other travel awards allows this condition.
- Student is responsible for submitting all travel award application materials and receipts in a timely manner.
- Funds will be disseminated on a first come, first serve basis assuming funds are available.
