

Cybersecurity for NextGen Workforce Development Workshop

The University of Memphis CfIA hosted the “Cybersecurity for NextGen Workforce Development” workshop on Sept 12, 2025. The event took place at the FedEx Institute of Technology building and included university faculty and leaders; industry practitioners, external academic partners, and student researchers associated with the cybersecurity education for critical infrastructure protection grant. The workshop focused on current trends and workforce competency development associated with privacy, security risk management, and student engagement. There were forty-two workshop participants (i.e., 20 in-person; 22 virtual).
