

Ad Operations Developer/Hacker

A unique opportunity to work at a startup with top talent from the LA Times, FBI, IRS, Bank of America, Yahoo, and Disney.

Description – DEVCON is a leading tech startup that developed an anti-virus application serving the multi-billion dollar online advertising ecosystem. This opportunity will expose someone to the technical side of the online advertisement industry, DEVCON's base application and our skilled workforce.

Developer Responsibilities – Develop applications (coding, documenting, and debugging) | Assess new application ideas | Research competitor offerings | Perform NetFlow analysis on malicious redirects and help identify sites that are vulnerable to malvertising exploits | Work a flexible schedule outside a traditional “Monday-Friday, 9-5” time frame

Essential Skills – Work well with others for interpersonal engagement success | Establish priorities, identify resources and personnel necessary to excel with a plethora of projects | Understand and disseminate complex data information | Possess an attentiveness to detail and the willingness to learn via “on the job” training

Required Technical Skills – Experience with web development (including HTML/CSS, JavaScript/jQuery, and Python) | Experience with SQL queries | Possesses strong data analytics skills

Preferred Technical Skills/Certs – Penetration testing experience of systems, web-based applications and networks (experience with MITM proxies is a bonus) | Exposure to reverse engineering | Certified Register of Ethical Security Testers (CREST) certification, and/or other Cyber-security certifications (CHECK, CTM, CTL, TIGER, OSCP)
