

Literary Heritage, Af-Am. Lit/ English 2202

Summer 2016

Class 5:30 pm - 7:30 pm MTWR

Clement Hall 115 May 31, 2016 - Jul 01, 2016

Instructor: Dr. Reginald Martin rmartin@memphis.edu

Course Description 2202

This course is designed to offer students an entry point into the study of African American Literature. While studying texts authored by African American authors, students will be introduced to advanced literary terms, concepts, and techniques for reading, writing, and critically evaluating literature. Students will read, discuss, and write about a variety of traditional and non-traditional texts that represent the diversity of the African American literary endeavor, including the Oral Tradition, non-fiction prose, and dramatic literature.