

ENGL 8010 – Writing Center Theory and Methodology

Course Description

This seminar will primarily explore the history, theory, and methodology of writing centers, with particular attention paid to writing center administration. As distinguished from previous iterations of this seminar, we will also spend some time covering writing studies administration in general (e.g., writing program administration, WAC/WID administration, and program development). This course would benefit students interested in a future in academic administration in general, writing studies administration in particular.
