

Monday, February 1, 2021

Dear Fellow World Language Educators,

The University of Memphis Department of World Languages and Literatures is happy to announce that it will hold a Virtual World Language Expo from April 12-16, 2021. Throughout that week, live virtual sessions will be scheduled covering 12 languages and how to transition to world language learning at the college level. The sessions will be led by UofM faculty members with the opportunity for Q&A with students, teachers, and parents. All sessions will be recorded and posted on our event website until April 23, 2021.

The topics covered in the virtual sessions will include:

- Arabic
- Chinese
- French
- German
- Italian
- Japanese
- Korean
- Latin and Classics
- Portuguese
- Russian
- Spanish
- Spanish for Heritage Speakers
- Spanish for Specific Purposes (Healthcare, Business, and Community).

Please follow us via social media on Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter for updates about the UofM Virtual World Language Expo.

We look forward to your participation and the opportunity to help engage fellow educators, students, administrators, and parents in learning about world language education at the college level.

Kind Regards,

Josh Nave and Dr. Ben Sparks
Co-Directors
UofM Virtual World Language Expo