FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE*Fogelman Renews Five-Year Accreditation for College and Crews School of Accountancy

Memphis, TN (April 2021). The Fogelman College of Business and Economics (FCBE) at the University of Memphis had its accreditation renewed by Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB) for another five years.

The accreditation covers both the entire Fogelman College of Business and Crews School of Accountancy programs, confirming the high-quality educational experience provided to students across all programs.

Dr. Damon Fleming, dean of FCBE and professor of Accounting, said the rigorous preparation and review exemplifies the collective effort and commitment of Fogelman stakeholders. "I am grateful to all the faculty, staff, students, alumni, industry partners, and Advisory Council members who participated in the comprehensive effort over the last two years to help Fogelman achieve AACSB reaccreditation."

"At Fogelman, we transform lives and enhance well-being through world-class business education. AACSB reaccreditation is a testament to the devotion and shared vision of all Fogelman stakeholders," said Fleming.

The AACSB review team, composed of Deans and senior administrators from peer business schools, interviewed Fogelman administrators, faculty, staff, Advisory Council members, and students to assess the quality and effectiveness of Fogelman's curricula, programs, and learning goals, a comprehensive review process that reaffirms the school's commitment to continuous improvement.

About FCBE

The Fogelman College of Business & Economics is an AACSB accredited institution comprising six departments – Crews School of Accountancy; Business Information and Technology; Economics; Finance, Insurance, and Real Estate; Management; and Marketing and Supply Chain Management. Undergraduate, graduate certificates, and MBA, master's and doctoral degrees are offered to the College student body of approximately 3,500 students, online and at the University of Memphis.

About AACSB

AACSB International was founded in 1916 and is the global accrediting body for business schools that offer undergraduate, master's, and doctoral degrees in business and accounting. Less than 5% of the business schools in the world earn AACSB Accreditation.
