COURSE REQUIREMENTS

CATALOG DESCRIPTION:

Key concepts and development of theories offered to explain operation and effects of mass communication media; multidiscipline overview of theories dealing with advertising, broadcasting, print, and public relations messages, media, and effects.

This class will provide you with an overview of the important theories in our field, and will encourage you to think about how these apply to the real world and how they will inform your future work as a media professional. The broadly explanatory concepts of theory help us understand some of the underlying ways in which humans respond to and share different types of information, and as thus can help us to make some informed predictions about what the future may hold.

PREREQUISITE:

Graduate status

TEXTBOOK:

McQuail, D. (2010). McQuail's mass communication theory (6th ed.). Thousand Oaks, CA: Sage. (2001).

Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (5th or 6th ed.). Washington, D.C.: American Psychological Association.

Note: this information is also mostly available online, and mostly accurate, so you can rely on that instead, but you MUST have some way to access this information.

Additional course readings will be available via eCourseware. A tentative list of readings is included in the syllabus; course readings may be altered during the semester.

CLASSROOM FORMAT:

This is a graduate seminar with lecture and class discussion. Each week, we will discuss a new topic and I and/or designated discussion leaders will be responsible for presenting the class with ideas for debate from the readings or examples from the field, and critically analyzing the week's theoretical concepts. Please note that failure to attend class or to actively take part – even if all your assignments are turned in on time and done acceptably - could significantly affect your final grade. Be sure you have read the material BEFORE class and come prepared to discuss it.

HYBRID CLASSROOM FORMAT

- Blue Jeans is a web-based video conferencing platform. Students in the M50 section will receive an invitation to join Blue Jeans from your instructor.
- This hybrid class, with students on campus and also online synchronously, operates in a seminar format.
- Online students must have a stable Internet connection, speakers and a microphone (or a headset with a built-in mic). Headsets can be purchased for approximately $20. Students will need to be able to have video turned on for the entire class. Online students will not be permitted to attend class using a cellphone.
- Class time will primarily be spent in discussion of theories, issues, and applications. To that end, on campus and online students must complete the assigned readings and be prepared to discuss the night's topic. Please note that failure to attend class or to actively take part — even if all your assignments are turned in on time and done acceptably — will significantly affect your final grade.

COURSE ASSIGNMENTS:

This is meant as a general guideline to the major assignments within the class. More detail will be provided in class and on eCourseware. Deadlines are also listed in the Class Schedule. All work should be turned in as a Word document via Dropbox in eCourseware. All work is due at the start of class, 5:30 p.m. CT on the assigned Wednesday, unless otherwise noted.

1. Discussion Leader

Each week, one person will serve as the discussion leader. Discussion leaders will be responsible for leading the majority of the class period, both through presenting a brief overview of the material read, and through leading discussion on that material. They will develop a list of questions based on the readings for the class to discuss, paying special attention to the real world implications of the research and theory we will be reading. The discussion leader will also highlight a few of the most important or most interesting points from the readings. Please be creative and find ways to try to engage the class and help us remember the important concepts. For example, show us a video clip, a cartoon, a photo, or a Web site and ask the class to analyze it from the theoretical perspective(s) of the week.

Discussion leaders should address the following general questions:

- What contribution has this approach made to the field of mass communication?
- What are the theory's strengths and weaknesses? or What are the argument's strengths and weaknesses?
- What is the theoretical significance of the research?
- What are the practical applications of this approach to journalism and strategic media?
- What were the most important or interesting points from the readings?

2. Weekly Short Papers

Each week, students will be asked to respond to the readings in the form of a 1-2 page paper (double-spaced). The idea is not to regurgitate the readings but to analyze them by providing insights and comments that demonstrate knowledge and deep thinking about theories, methods and concepts found in the week's readings. Students may make connections to readings from other weeks, connections to their final paper, connections to something they have read about or learned in either popular media or another course, among others. The purpose is to interact with the material in such a way as to be prepared to discuss it in class, and to write out your thoughts on the ideas presented. Given the brevity of the papers, there is no need to define concepts or theories, but students should provide examples where appropriate.

Students who submit solely (or mostly, defined by professor's discretion) an outline of the readings will NOT be given credit for that week's short paper. This is meant to be your thoughts, reactions, questions, and connections to the readings, not an outline of them.

Students will NOT be required to turn in short papers for the week(s) in which they are the discussion leaders.

Papers should BOTH be uploaded to Dropbox (for grading) and be brought to class in some form (printed, on a laptop/tablet, etc.) in order to help the student remember their ideas and connections during the class discussion.

3. Research Colloquium Response Paper

Graduate students must attend (either in person or via BlueJeans), and write a 1-2 page reflection paper about, at least one research colloquium sponsored by the Department. Dates for the colloquia are Friday, September 21, Friday October 26, and Friday November 30. All are from noon to 1 p.m. in Meeman 202, except for the one in September, which will be at 12:45 p.m., cosponsored with the Department of History, and held in Mitchell Hall, Room 200.

Students enrolled in more than one course in the department may write multiple reflections of one research presentation as long as the topic is customized to the individual class. For example, for JOUR 7050, a student should reflect on the theory/concepts discussed, while for 7530, a student should reflect on the use of visuals. Paper must be turned in by 5:30 p.m. CT on the Tuesday following the colloquia.

4. Theory and Definition Paper

Write a short paper (3-5 pages, double-spaced), discussing a theory and its connected definitions in depth. This paper should pick one area (ideally an area of interest, and/or an area that would be useful for either the final paper in this class, the research methods class, or the final practicum/project/thesis) and discuss it in depth, choosing one major theory to articulate, including both the seminal work(s) and how the theory has changed or adapted over time to the most recent research. This paper should include definitions for and/or operationalize all terms and ideas presented. Examples will be provided and discussed in class. Due Tuesday, November 20 at 5:30 p.m. Central.

5. Final Paper

Complete the front half of a research paper, including introduction, literature review, research questions, and suggestions for methodology (approximately 12-15 pages double-spaced). This paper will help students to synthesize a variety of material on a particular topic. I will discuss the mechanics of completing a literature review in class, but generally, it should act as an argument for why your particular project helps the field move forward. Think of the literature review as a map, helping people understand what has already been discovered in this area, and what remains to be uncovered or studied. The research questions/hypotheses should follow clearly from the literature review, pointing to the specific aspects of the map you hope to reveal with this particular project. Many of the readings for this course include excellent reviews of relevant literature, which may be used as a model for this assignment. You might think of it as a lit review for a study you plan to conduct yourself and submit to a conference or journal for publication. Ideally, it will be useful to you in your thesis, practicum, or project.

The paper must have at least 15 different citations, the bulk of which must be from books or academic journals. You are to read the original research (don't cite someone who is in turn citing somebody else). Papers should synthesize major conclusions and themes in the literature. APA style must be followed, for formatting, in-text citations and the reference list.

You will have several mini deadlines before the final paper is due. You will turn in research questions/general proposal, then an annotated bibliography of sources, then a methods section, and finally, the final paper and a presentation to the class.

Research questions/general proposal: All students must have their proposals approved by the instructor before they can proceed with the rest of the paper. The proposal in brief should include your research questions, significance of project, and introduction of theoretical/conceptual framework. Approximately 2-3 pages. Due Tuesday, September 18.

Annotated bibliography: The annotated bibliography must include a full and complete APA citation and two paragraphs of commentary for each source included. The first paragraph should summarize the work and the second paragraph should explain the usefulness of the source to the research topic. Approximately 8-10 pages. Due Tuesday, October 23.

Method section: Here is where you explain how you will go about answering your research questions. You WILL NOT be completing the research (at least, not as a requirement from the class, but I encourage you to consider working toward something you could submit for a conference or publication). Instead, discuss what method(s) you think would be most helpful for answering your research questions, and why. You will also need to cite sources here, to provide support for why you are choosing particular method(s). Due Tuesday, November 6.

Presentation and final paper: You will give a presentation of your findings to the class during our final meeting period, Tuesday, December 4. Your final paper will be due on Monday, December 10 at 5:30 p.m.

QUALITY OF WORK:

All work in this course should follow AP Style, including proper spelling, grammar, and language. A large part of mass communication is having a polished written concept of what you are communicating. This includes all class work and presentations. Although line editing is unlikely, problems in these or other areas will result in the deduction of points.

I expect your work to be good and to be yours. What is not yours should be fully cited. In documenting sources, you should use APA formatting. If you need help with writing and citing sources, please see me for resources. In addition, Purdue University's Online Writing Lab is an excellent resource, and can be found at <http://owl.english.purdue.edu>.

REPETITION OF COURSES AND COURSEWORK:

Students may not use or submit work from a previous course, even if it is the same course being repeated, to fulfill requirements for assignments in another course. If students wish to substantially rework the original submission, or to work with the same general idea, that may be permissible upon discussion with and written approval from the professor of the current course. All written work will be checked for policy adherence via TurnItIn.com. All creative work will be checked for policy adherence by the professor, and judged against previous submissions. The only exception to this policy is the student's online portfolio and its attendant pieces (for example, the resume and logo).

QUESTIONS ABOUT GRADES:

If you would like to ask about a grade, please make an appointment to meet with me outside of class time, as I will not discuss grades via email or during class. If you have a question or problem with a grade, exam question, or in-class assignment, you have 48 hours after the assignment is returned to you to contact me, or the grade stands. Your question or appeal must be stated in writing, citing your position and why you feel the mark is incorrect. The appeal should be turned in to the professor or sent via email within the stated time frame.

Additionally, you are responsible for tracking your grade online and meeting with me early in the semester if you are concerned about your overall grade. Meeting with me early and often can help both parties involved find ways to improve student-professor understanding and quality of work.

COURSE SCHEDULE:

This is a basic schedule for topics and major assignments over the course of the semester. Although every effort will be made to stick with this schedule, please understand that some material may require more or less discussion and class time. Thus, changes to the schedule may occur. All changes will be announced in class.

Note: Readings should be completed prior to the session they will be discussed. Articles not in the McQuail book are available on eCourseware.

DEPARTMENT POLICIES

PORTFOLIO REQUIREMENT:

All students in the Department of Journalism and Strategic Media are required to develop and maintain an active portfolio of their work. Undergraduate students are to begin the portfolio in JRSM 3900 and contribute to it from every course thereafter. The portfolio should contain samples of the student's work from his/her courses and/or professional experience and should develop as the student builds skills. Portfolios will undergo a final, external review while students are enrolled in the capstone course for their majors.

Students may use any type of web hosting for their portfolios, but it must have an independent and professional URL. The department requires students to use WordPress to build their portfolio sites. Students are encouraged to consider purchasing a URL and hosting if they plan to use the portfolio for a long term, but must keep the portfolio active for six months following graduation from the University of Memphis.

Students should have a professional email address they plan to use throughout their professional life, via a common email service, such as Gmail or Yahoo.

All portfolios must contain the following items:

- Samples of work from courses and/or professional activities. (Example: Broadcasting students must include a video reel)
- A current résumé
- A personal profile
- Contact information/means of contact
- Social media links

Students might wish to include a blog, video reels, photograph galleries, SoundSlides presentations, design PDFs, audio files, and Storify pieces as examples of professional work. The professional work should ultimately be tailored to the career the student seeks after graduation. Thus, each student's portfolio should show a unique blend of work.

EMAIL:

You must have your UM email account activated. If you are using another provider such as Google, you are required to have your UM email forwarded to that account. Go to the <http://iam.memphis.edu> website to implement forwarding of UM email. You are required to check your email daily. You are responsible for complying with any email sent to you by your professor or the University.

MOBILE PHONES AND LAPTOPS:

Some classes require a tablet, laptop or a smartphone. Others do not. Your instructor will set the policy for her/her specific class.

ATTENDANCE:

Class attendance is mandatory in the Department of Journalism and Strategic Media. You may be assigned a failing grade for the semester for nonattendance, or habitual late arrival. No late work will be accepted without prior arrangements, which are acceptable to your professor. Students may not be permitted to make up any missing work unless it is for an absence because of illness or other catastrophic emergency such as a death in the family that can be documented (e.g. with a doctor's note or a copy of the newspaper obituary). This is a professional program for journalists who are expected to understand and comply with deadlines. If you have some problem making it to class on time make arrangements to fix the problem or consider taking another class. You should consider this class your "job" in the educational process and be on time just as you would elsewhere.

CHEATING:

In addition to university-wide policies stated in the Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities, the Department of Journalism and Strategic Media considers making up quotes from sources, turning in substantially the same assignment for credit in two different courses, or a student receiving any assistance from others for work assigned to be done on his/her own, as acts of cheating punishable to the degree determined appropriate by the course instructor and department chair. That may include grade reductions or seeking dismissal of the student from the university.

Further, as this is a journalism/mass communication class, students are expected to comply with copyright law, and must have sufficient permission to use any copyrighted materials used in creative projects, unless otherwise informed in cases of exercises or reproduction.

"Your written work may be submitted to Turnitin.com, or a similar electronic detection method, for an evaluation of the originality of your ideas and proper use and attribution of sources. As part of this process, you may be required to submit electronic as well as hard copies of your written work, or be given other instructions to follow. By taking this course, you agree that all assignments may undergo this review process and that the assignment may be included as a source document in Turnitin.com's restricted access database solely for the purpose of detecting plagiarism in such documents. Any assignment not submitted according to the procedures given by the instructor may be penalized or may not be accepted at all." (Office of Legal Counsel, October 17, 2005)

ONLINE SETEs:

You are urged to complete the SETEs evaluation of this course. Once your instructor has posted your grade, you can immediately see that grade, provided you completed a teacher evaluation for that class. How to access your evaluation forms: Log in using your UUID and email password; click on the gray "Student" tab; complete an evaluation for each course listed and hit the "Submit" button at the bottom of the form. It will only take a few minutes of your time. We take the evaluations very seriously and use them to improve courses and instructional quality. Your feedback is essential and will be appreciated.

DEADLINES:

Remember there's a reason "DEAD" makes up half the word "deadline." All deadlines are firm. This is journalism and strategic media. If you get into trouble, talk to your instructor. Exceptions will be made for reasonable circumstances if the student notifies the instructor prior to the due date.

AP STYLE AND GRAMMAR:

All written work in this class should follow the AP Stylebook and accepted rules of grammar and punctuation. If you don't know the style for a particular phrase, look it up or ask your classmates or the instructor.

DISABILITY:

Any student who feels s/he may need an accommodation based on the impact of a disability should contact your instructor privately to discuss your specific needs. Please contact the Office for Disability Services at 901-678-2880 in 110 Wilder Tower Hall to coordinate reasonable accommodations for students with documented disabilities.

DIVERSITY:

Students are required to respect the differences of others and treat all persons with respect. Discriminatory, derogatory and threatening language or behavior will not be tolerated. Further, students are expected to consider their work through a diverse mind. Mass communications reach a mass audience, and students should be aware of how those messages are received by a diverse audience.

WEATHER POLICY:

Always check with local media and the University of Memphis website regarding inclement weather. If the university is closed or classes are canceled, this course will not meet. However, students will still be responsible for that day's work.
