CLASSROOM FORMAT:
This is a writing course. Consequently, students write every week and receive regular feedback and coaching on their work. The class consists of both lecture and laboratory time to be determined by instructors.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS:
• Students complete writing assignments both inside and outside the classroom. During the semester, each student completes three stories written outside of class: (1) interview of a newsmaker in class, written outside of class; (2) an advance story with at least two interviews; (3) covering an event in person with at least three interviews and a data source. Students also rewrite all outside stories. Note: Rewrites must include the additional reporting discussed in story editing notes. If students do not complete additional reporting, they will receive lower grades than the original stories.
Assignments must have a story slug, date and byline and be filed in a word document that is double spaced with indented paragraphs in 12 pt. type. Do not put extra space between paragraphs. If assignments do not follow this format, they will not be graded.

Media writing requires knowledge of Associated Press style. Therefore, students write all assignments for 2121 in correct AP style, and they complete quizzes on basic AP style during the semester. Instructors determine quiz schedules.

Students also complete an AP Stylebook PowerPoint presentation during the semester. Instructors schedule deadlines.

Students must stay informed about the news. They will, at a minimum, read The Daily Helmsman, The Commercial Appeal, and the Daily Memphian every day in order to be prepared for weekly current events quizzes, which will be given at the beginning of class each Thursday unless otherwise announced by the professor. AP and news quizzes cannot be made up if you miss class or are late for whatever reason. Boxes across campus provide free copies of the Daily Helmsman and The Commercial Appeal. Students subscribe to the Daily Memphian at dailymemphian.com.

Students in all sections of 2121 complete the same mid-term and final exams. The mid-term covers such skills as leads, attribution and quotes. The final includes short stories written in class, along with short answers on news fundamentals and AP style.

Outside experts may evaluate a story component of the final exam as part of a department assessment of student achievement. This assessment does not impact final grades.

GRADING:

- Written lab assignments: 30 percent
- Homework, news quizzes and AP style quizzes: 20 percent
- Three outside story assignments: 25 percent
- Three outside story rewrites: 10 percent
- Mid-term exam: 5 percent
- Final exam: 10 percent

OTHER ISSUES:

- Media writing is a practical, hands-on course that teaches students to think and write as professionals. Consequently, regular attendance is vital. If you miss a class, you cannot make up the work regardless of the reason. Please do not email the professor to ask what work was covered during your absence. Instead, check with a classmate on material missed or deadlines announced. Remember: Homework and the work you do in class is worth 50 percent (that’s half!) of your final course grade.
Here's how attendance works: I'm not interested in hearing excuses. You get three free passes during the semester. After you cash in the passes, missed classes are reflected in your final grade. For example, if you miss one additional class, your final grade drops a letter grade. If you miss two more classes, your grade drops again. So, if you miss six classes, your final grade drops two letters. However, on the days you use your three passes, you still do NOT get to make up the missed work or quizzes/tests and you must check with other students to see what you missed.

Meeting deadlines is essential for media professionals, so story deadlines are firm. Professors do not accept late stories, except for major medical emergencies with verification. (A sinus infection is not a medical emergency.) Assignments are due at the beginning of class. Grammar, spelling, punctuation and AP style are crucial to your success in media writing. We work in these areas every week.

Coming to class well prepared is equally important. This means reading the assigned chapters in the textbooks and staying informed about current events. JRSM 2121 is the linchpin for a professional program in journalism, so act accordingly.

Along with classroom and homework assignments, students write three outside stories: an advance story, an event or lecture story, and a news feature.

Along with grammar and writing techniques, students learn to work independently, to develop story ideas, to interview sources, to organize information from multiple sources.

• Media Literacy: Students stay informed about news, newsmakers, and the business of media companies through classroom discussions, assignments, and weekly current events quizzes. Students also learn the basics of how news is written, packaged, and produced.

PORTFOLIO REQUIREMENT:
All students in the Department of Journalism and Strategic Media are required to develop and maintain an active portfolio of their work. Undergraduate students are to begin the portfolio in JRSM 3900 and graduate students are to begin in JRSM 7002. Students are to contribute to it in every skills course thereafter. The portfolio should contain samples of the student’s work from courses and/or professional experiences and should develop as the student builds skills. Portfolios will undergo a final, external review while students are enrolled in their capstone courses.

Students may use any type of web hosting for their portfolios, but it must have an independent and professional URL. Students may use any content management system, but students are encouraged to use WordPress, Wix, or SquareSpace. Students are encouraged to consider purchasing a URL and hosting if they plan to use the portfolio for a long term, but they must keep the portfolio active for six months following graduation from the University of Memphis.

Students should have a professional email address they plan to use throughout their professional lives, via a common email service, such as Gmail.

All portfolios must contain the following items:
• Samples of work from courses and/or professional activities. (Example:
  Broadcasting students must include a video reel)
• A current résumé
• A personal profile
• Contact information/means of contact
• Social media links

Students might wish to include a blog, video reels, photograph galleries, SoundSlides presentations, design PDFs, audio files, and writing pieces as examples of professional work. The professional work should ultimately be tailored to the career the student seeks after graduation. Thus, each student’s portfolio should show a unique blend of work.

EMAIL:
Students must have their UofM email accounts activated. Students using another provider, such as Google, are required to have all UofM email forwarded to that account. Students should go to the http://iam.memphis.edu website to implement forwarding of UofM email. Students are required to check their email daily. They are responsible for complying with any email sent to by professors or others in the University.

ATTENDANCE:
Class attendance is mandatory in the Department of Journalism and Strategic Media. Students may be assigned a failing grade for the semester for nonattendance or habitual late arrival. No late work will be accepted without prior arrangements with the class professor. Students may not be permitted to make up any missing work unless it is for an absence because of illness or other catastrophic emergency, such as a death in the family that can be documented (e.g. with a doctor’s note or a copy of the newspaper obituary). Journalism and Strategic Media is a professional program, and students are expected to understand and comply with deadlines. Students who have some problem making it to class on time should make arrangements to correct the problem or consider taking another class. Students should consider this class as a “job” in the educational process and be on time just as they would elsewhere.

COURSE REPETITION:
Majors and minors who fail to earn the minimum passing grade (“C-”) in a class required by their program of study in Journalism and Strategic Media more than three times will be dropped from the program.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY:
In addition to University-wide policies stated in the Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities, the Department of Journalism and Strategic Media considers making up quotes from sources, turning in substantially the same assignment for credit in two different courses, or students receiving any assistance from others for work assigned to be done on their own, as acts of cheating punishable to the degree determined appropriate by the course instructor and department chair. Punishment may include grade reductions or seeking dismissal of the student from the University.

Further, as this is a journalism/mass media class, students are expected to comply with copyright law and must have sufficient permission to use any copyrighted materials used in creative projects, unless otherwise informed in cases of exercises or reproduction.

“Your written work may be submitted to Turnitin.com, or a similar electronic detection method, for an evaluation of the originality of your ideas and proper use and attribution of sources. As part of this process, you may be required to submit electronic as well as hard copies of your written work, or be given other instructions to follow. By taking this course, you agree that all assignments may undergo this review process and that the assignment may be included as a source document in Turnitin.com’s restricted access database solely for the purpose of detecting plagiarism in such documents. Any assignment not submitted according to the procedures given by the instructor may be penalized or may not be accepted at all.” (Office of Legal Counsel, October 17, 2005)
