SPECIAL NOTE: The Advanced Criminal Prosecution intersession course is normally offered during spring break week for one academic credit. Because it is run in conjunction with the Tennessee District Attorneys General Conference and offered in person, it is not yet known (and will likely not be known for some time) whether the course will be offered during the Spring 2021 semester. Accordingly, students should not rely on the course to meet any graduation requirements. As it becomes available, more information about the Advanced Criminal Prosecution course will be shared on the law school blog. Students should contact Professor Danny Schaffzin at dschffzn@memphis.edu with any questions.
