

Pictures for Science

The following pictures each represent one of the numbered concepts from the Science Summer Reading text. The order of the pictures below is random. Use the reading text to determine which picture matches each concept, then write the number (found in green ink) in the top left corner of the picture.

Important: Every shape represents an atom. Different colors are used to show different types of atoms. Pay attention to whether atoms are touching other atoms or are alone.

