

Department of Mathematical Sciences at The University of Memphis

University of Memphis, Department of Mathematical Sciences, Memphis, TN, USA 38152; (901) 678-2482; www.msci.memphis.edu

Paul Erdős Lecture Series
28th - 29th March 2008

Erdős for Beginners: Erdős, Epsilon, Co-authors and Numbers

Friday, 28th March 2008, 3:30pm
FedEx Technology Bldg., The Zone

András Sárközy

University of Memphis, TN
Eötvös University, Budapest, Hungary

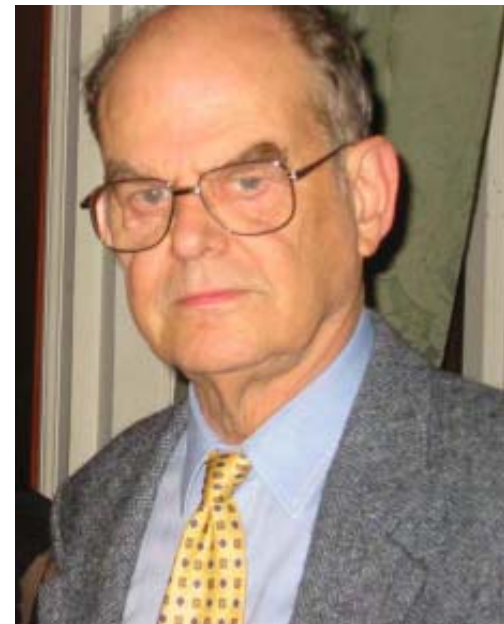

The Twelfth Annual Paul Erdős Lecture

Friday, 28th March 2008, 4:15pm
FedEx Technology Bldg., The Zone

Some historical comments on the theory of finite groups

John Thompson

University of Florida
1970 Fields Medalist and 1992 Wolf Prize Recipient

Previous Lecturers: V. T. Sós, R. L. Graham, W.T. Gowers, L. Lovász, J. T. Chayes, E. Bombieri, J. H. Conway, E. Szemerédi, N. Alon, T. Tao, and P. Lax

2008 Erdős Conference

Friday, 28th March 2008, 1:30pm - 3:30pm
Saturday, 29th March 2008, 9:30am - 5:30pm
FedEx Technology Bldg., Methodist Presentation Theater

Two days of talks featuring presentations from:

Nikos Frantzikinakis

University of Memphis
Memphis, TN

András Sárközy

University of Memphis, Memphis, TN
Eötvös University, Budapest, Hungary

John Thompson

University of Florida
Gainesville, FL

Florian Luca

Universidad Nacional Autonoma
de Mexico

Cameron Stewart

University of Waterloo
Canada

Ramarathnam Venkatesan

Microsoft Research
Redmond, WA

Robert Morris

University of Cambridge
Cambridge, United Kingdom

Balázs Szegedy

Rényi Institute, Budapest, Hungary
University of Toronto, Canada

Douglas West

University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign
Urbana, IL

Registration is free, but is strongly encouraged and requires no commitment to attend. To register, please email your name, affiliation, anticipated date of arrival and departure, and address to tdsimmns@memphis.edu

Funding towards travel related expenses may be available. Please visit the conference website for details about applying. The deadline to submit applications is March 3, 2008. For information regarding accommodation and conference activities, please visit the conference website: www.msci.memphis.edu or call (901) 678-5610.