The Complete Professional Program

Educated Ethical Polished Healthy Community-Oriented

Accounting Careers of Tomorrow

Make Today Count

A partnership between the Avron B. Fogelman Professional Development Center and local CPA firm Reynolds Bone & Griesbeck, ACT was designed for undergraduate Accounting majors who have completed Intermediate Accounting 1 and graduate students pursuing a MS in Accountancy. Participants will have an opportunity to meet accounting professionals from organizations such as International Paper, FedEx, and other firms, in addition to their hosts from RBG. Many FCBE students have made lasting career connections through this program!

February 1, 2019
9:30 AM - 4:30 PM

Interviewing Skills for the Accounting Profession
Accounting professionals will join the session to assist in mock interviews for upcoming internships and job opportunities. Students will have a career assessment to help determine future options.

Accounting Ethics and Professional Development
Local experts will discuss ethical issues as well as professional development options for post-graduation career enhancement. This will be an interactive session with RBG professionals featuring ethical scenarios and applications.

Career Options in Accounting
Students will learn about career paths in accounting via an industry panel of accounting professionals from across our city. A networking reception will follow with RBG executives and participating employers.

ACT Now!

Register Online:
fcbeacad.memphis.edu/professional/

Deadline to Register:
January 16, 2019 (space is limited)

Contact:
professional@memphis.edu

Accounting Careers of Tomorrow program is made possible by The Avron B. Fogelman Professional Development Center, which strives to prepare students for success in the real world, and give them a competitive edge.