Futures in Finance

A Mutual Fit for Personal Success

Ever wonder what’s after the degree? The Futures in Finance program is designed for undergraduate Finance majors to examine the options available to them before and beyond graduation. This three-course series will explore different fields of finance, help you discover your strengths, and guide you to success. The series is comprised of three 2-hour sessions and will be limited to 25 students.

Finance 101: What You Need to Know —
Wednesday, November 4
Finance 101 is an open discussion with a panel of Finance professionals—topics ranging from personal finance to investments, business planning, healthcare, etc. In addition, interview skills for finance positions will be reviewed by industry professionals.

Students will be assigned a career profile assessment that will be the topic of discussion in session 3.

Ethics in Finance & Career Development —
Wednesday, November 11
Students will learn about the importance of ethics and professional relationships. Students will also discuss ways to grow and develop their careers in the financial industry.

Finding Your Mutual Fit —
Wednesday, November 18
Students will review the results from the career profile assessment. This session will also help students discover the best fit for them in the industry and help them gain valuable insight into marketing themselves in the world of professional financial associations.

The three-course series is limited to the first 25 students who sign up. Applications are due by October 1.
