LANGUAGE AND BEHAVIOR LAB

Room 439, Psychology Building

The Language and Behavior lab (LaBlab) at the University of Memphis seeks to understand the underlying mechanisms of language processing and how behaviors unfold over time. We use novel approaches to eyetracking and motion tracking to understand meaning and processing as they happen in real contexts. We specialize in investigating how people activate different meanings as they hear language.

If you are interested in joining the LaBlab or learning more, please visit our lab website: http://stephaniehuette.com/

Or feel free to contact Dr. Stephanie Huette at shuette@memphis.edu or Jeff Viaud at jmviaud@memphis.edu