

Public Health in Action Initiative

Jump Start Your Public Health Journey: with an opportunity to learn real-world public health that influences the world!

Do You Want To Be a Global Ambassador of Public Health?

Become a collaborator with the PH Diplomacy initiative developed by the University of Memphis

Public Health In Action is a Program for Future Global Changemakers

The Public Health In Action online, continuing education initiative is designed for students from around the world who are interested in exploring the cutting edge of health, science, and innovation, to build thriving communities.

What You Will Learn:

Data Gathering Techniques in Public Health

Introducing the field of Public Health

Importance of Research in Public Health

Human-Centered Design Approaches in Public Health

Storytelling with Public Health Data

Role of Data, Information and Knowledge in Public Health

Public Health Entrepreneurship

Evaluation of Public Health Intervention

Technological Innovations in Public Health

Public Health is Glocal

Public Health Case Studies

About the Program:

- 3 to 4 months to complete
- 30 hours of course instruction
- Total of 10 topics and 4 case studies
- Self-paced and fully virtual program

Optional online sessions for questions and discussions

Eligibility:

High school and college students, graduate students, postgraduate professionals, and healthcare practitioners.

This virtual certificate course costs $200.

Register Today

Scan or click the QR code to register for this program

Questions? Visit memphis.edu/publichealth/initiatives or email PHIASPH@memphis.edu

Available for credit transfer towards the undergraduate program in Public Health offered by University of Memphis School of Public Health

