Are you interested in a career in child welfare?

Social workers who work in child welfare provide an array of prevention and intervention services to children and families, particularly children who have been or are at risk of abuse or neglect; children with special medical or mental health needs; delinquent children; and children who do not have adult caregivers.

If you are a social work major, who is interested in child welfare then the Tennessee Department of Children's Services is interested in you!

If you are a social work major interested in a career in child welfare, then:
Apply for the Title IV-E Tuition Assistance Program!

The Title IV-E Tuition Assistance Program:

- Provides full-time undergraduate students with tuition and financial assistance for up to four semesters.
- DCS pays Title IV-E graduates a higher starting salary.
- In return, participants must work for DCS for 18 to 24 months (depending upon the amount of funding they receive) when they graduate.
