

WEBINAR SERIES

Telehealth for Vulnerable Populations

The University of Memphis (UofM) will host a series of one-hour webinars related to Telehealth for Vulnerable Populations. Our audience is an interdisciplinary group of health professionals, clinicians, and leaders of community-based organizations. The series will take place in June 2020. Each webinar will last one hour and consist of panelists experienced in a certain topic related to telehealth. Webinars are free of charge, but registration is required.

Partnering organizations include the FedEx Institute of Technology; UM School of Public Health; School of Social Work; School of Communication Sciences and Disorders; School of Counseling, Educational Psychology & Research; iIMPACT; the American Council for School Social Work (ACSSW); and the Tennessee Association for Behavior Analysis (TABA).

Continuing education credit will be available for several professions: Behavior Analysis, Public Health, and Social Work.

Webinar series schedule:

All webinars will take place from 11 AM - NOON (CDT).

Marian Levy, DrPH, RD, FAND will moderate the sessions.
