

I used to be very, very angry. Hopes and dreams, I didn't have 'em. This is the place where I use to do my thing (get high) and where I made my home.

I used to spend my money on drugs and not myself or kids. Now I'm able to get my children stuff, like this jewelry for my baby girl's birthday.

I'm 10 years clean and sober by the grace of God. I changed my life completely around. I am someone, I'm fine, full of life, and I love me some me.

Today, by the grace of God, I'm here and I'm grateful. Now I'm able to take care of myself. I have a house where I pay rent. I got hopes and dreams today.

My proudest moment is my children and the reason why I'm proud of my children is because when they was younger and I was in my drug addiction days my sister got custody of them. Now that they are older, today, they call me mama, they say they love me, and they done forgave me. On Valentine's Day, I asked my son where my Valentine's present at? He grabbed me and started kissing me all over my face and said there you go mama. And that just melted my heart.
