Vol. 1 No. 15 July 15, 1961 Somerville, Tennessee

SURPLUS FOOD IS HERE

Surplus food is here. It is in Fayette and Haywood Counties. You must write a letter to the President of the United States and thank him for feeding you and your family. Do not worry about proper form. Simply take an envelope, address it like this;

President John F. Kennedy
White House
Washington 25, D.C.

Inside your letter just tell the President how much you needed the food and how it has helped you and your family.

All Needy families that don't have application numbers for surplus food, be at the Armory in Somerville, Monday morning, July 17, 1961.

KEEP YOUR EYES ON THE PRIZE

In 1954, we got our big boost. The Supreme Court ruling outlawing segregation in public schools. This decision was not only a legally right one, but also a morally right one. It awoke the conscience of both Negro and white races throughout the nation.

Immediate desegregation was required by this ruling. As of 1960 only 6% of the schools in the South were integrated. Is 1% per year immediate? In 1957 the Supreme Court outlawed segregation in all stations of the public vehicular conveyance. The Freedom Ride has drastically demonstrated the lack of implementation of this law. The lawlessness of the southern states is evidenced by their continued segregation of these facilities. Negro families who have been sharecroppers all their lives were evicted with no place to go simply for trying to obtain what is rightfully theirs _ "The Right of Vote" _ The Constitution of this "Great" nation states that all people should vote regardless of race. "Tent City" is the result of people trying to live by the Constitution of the United States.

Progress has been slow, it's been almost 100 years yet we've come a long way. The truth is we have a much longer way to go. It seems hard, yes, sometimes maybe even impossible. The student movement has a song, a song of inspiration, a song of unflinching hope.

We should keep in our hearts as a motto, "Keep Your Eyes on the Prize, Hold on!"
