Purpose

This training material highlights the Problems in Blogs and how to fix them.

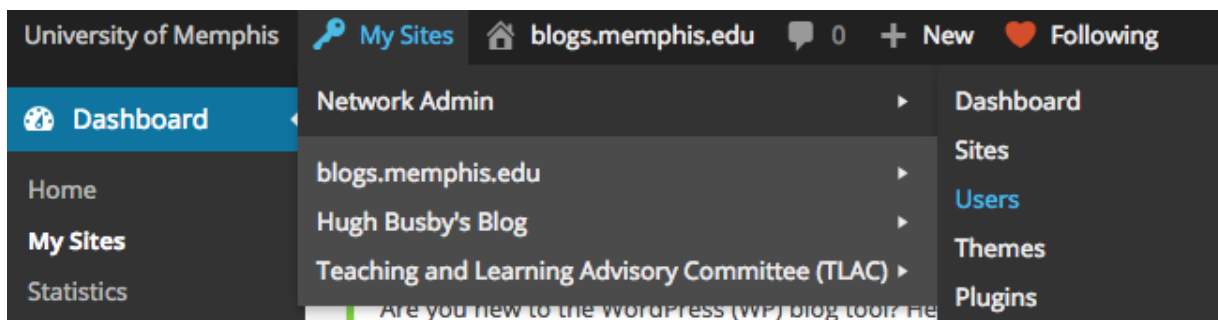

Audience

This training material is designed for university staff who will be maintaining and managing blogs.

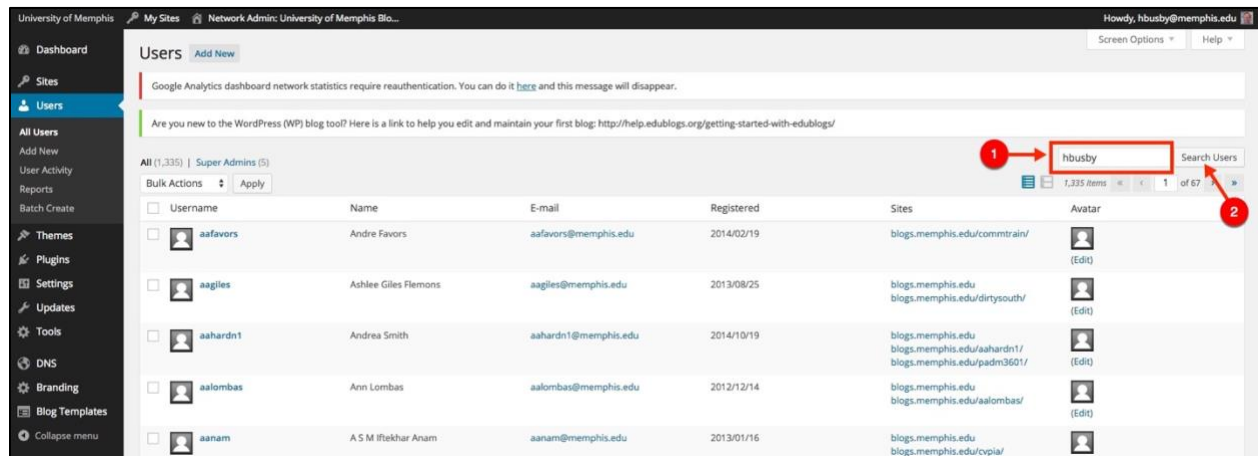

Errors and How to Fix Them

User Account Already Exists

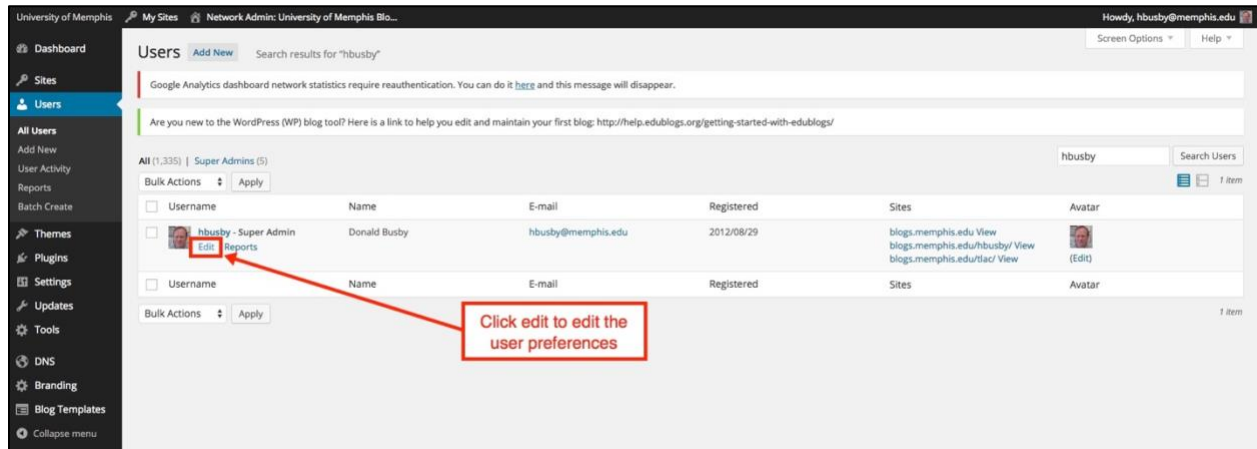

1. Log into blogs.memphis.edu
2. Log into My sites > Network Admin > Users

3. From the list of users, look up the User ID of the troubled account.
 1. Type in the uuid of the user then
 2. Click search.

4. Click edit to edit the preferences of the users. This will allow you to change the log in user preferences in the user profile.

5. Once you have logged in, edit the user profile, scroll down to Account Authentication Type. 1) Change from Local to Shibboleth. 2) Update the Profile to save the changes. Once this has been done, the client should be able to log into blogs.memphis.edu.

Adding a Student to a Class Blog for an Instructor

Add a student to a class so they can be viewed in the sidebar of a class blog.

An instructor emailed me to say that a student was not added as a subscriber to the class; therefore, he could not find it. Once I added him as a subscriber, I could enter the system, impersonate him, add the class, then go in as the instructor, impersonate the class instructor, and approve him. Once the student was added as a subscriber, they were guaranteed to see the class when they searched for it. The student now appears in your sidebar.
